About the conference

A non-profit conference for those who build, use, and sustain free and open source software.

The open source ecosystem relies on more than just developers. Writers, testers and bug reporters, translators, designers, organizers, educators and community advocates all build it together. Non-profit conferences that bring many projects together, such as COSCUP in Taiwan and FOSDEM in Belgium, have long strengthened their local ecosystems. Korea has events run by large communities, but individual developers and early-stage projects still find it hard to create a stage of their own. This conference exists to provide an open one, not tied to any single technology or project.

Thank you to every 2025 sponsor. We would be glad to have you with us again in 2026. Returning sponsors get first priority on tier slots, booths and sessions.

Why sponsor

Sponsorship is more than just a donation. It is a direct investment in the open source ecosystem your own software already uses, and a chance to meet a clearly defined audience of working IT professionals.

A targeted audience

Most attendees work in the IT industry. You are not talking to a general crowd but to people who understand your product and the technology behind it.

Talent acquisition

Developers who spend their own time on open source are hard to reach through ordinary hiring channels.

Brand visibility

Sponsor logos are displayed on banners, the website, attendee badges and break videos, and in media partner coverage.

An ESG contribution

Creating social value, supporting IT education, and developing the industry ecosystem map directly onto the ESG criteria global companies report against.

Product and service promotion

Meet potential and existing customers face to face, introduce what you build, and get honest feedback on the spot.

Technical leadership

Share your open source strategy, your contributions, and your engineering culture with the community directly.

Real support for the ecosystem

Nearly all software that companies ship today uses open source. Sponsoring is the most direct way to help keep that foundation healthy.

Transparent spending

FOSS for All is a registered non-profit in Korea and publishes its financial statements continuously. You can check where your money went at any time.

Pricing

- KRW amounts exclude 10% VAT.
- Foreign corporations without a place of business in Korea are invoiced in USD and zero-rated for VAT: nothing is added to the USD figure.

Availability

- Gold is limited to 2 slots and Silver to 5. Bronze has no limit.
- Booths and sessions are limited and assigned in order of confirmation.
- To move up a tier or adjust a package, talk to the sponsorship team.
- Support not on this table is welcome. Write to sponsors@fossforall.org before applying.

Add-ons and single items

Beyond the tiers, you can add a sponsor session, buy a table booth on its own, or sponsor in kind.

Sponsor session add-on

USD 700

Gold and Silver sponsors / 3 slots / 30 minutes

KRW 1,000,000

A 30-minute slot in the regular talk schedule. A good opportunity to present your experience with open source technology, a project your team maintains, or how your engineering organization works.

- Proposal first, payment second. Submit a talk proposal, the program team reviews it, and you buy the add-on once it is accepted.
- Talks must be about open source and follow the code of conduct. Heavy product pitching is not allowed.
- Slots are assigned in order of acceptance, and room size follows that order. Keynotes are not available.
- Sponsor sessions are labelled as such on the website and in the program book.

Booth only

USD 350

Limited / first come, first served

For those who want a booth without a tier package. The number of available booths varies by venue. Remaining booths go on sale one to two months before the event, once the tier packages have sold. The application window will be announced separately.

In-kind sponsorship

Converted to a tier after review

You can sponsor goods and services the event needs. Send your proposal to the sponsorship team and, after review, we grant the benefits of the tier matching its cash value.

In-kind examples

Lunch and catering · coffee truck · swag · books · recording, audio and networking gear · venue WiFi · live interpretation and captions · tool licences for the organising team

Benefits in detail

Logo exposure

- Banners: Sponsor logos are displayed, sized by tier, on banners at the venue entrance and in each session room.
- Website: Your logo, a short description, and a link go in the sponsor section of the conference website.
- Attendee badge: Gold sponsor logos are printed on the badge every attendee wears all day.

Interaction

- Table booth: Gold and Silver sponsors may take a table booth, talk to attendees directly, and run their own booth events or mini sessions. Booths are limited and assigned in the order sponsorships are confirmed.
- Sponsor session: Available as an add-on. See the previous page.
- Tickets: Tickets are provided according to tier so your team can attend and meet attendees in person.

Marketing

- Social media: A sponsor introduction post goes out on the FOSS for All social media channels.
- Break video: Gold sponsors may supply a video to be played between sessions.
- Attendee data: Attendee data is provided so you can follow up with attendees after the event. Gold sponsors receive email address, name, affiliation, and role; Silver sponsors receive email addresses.

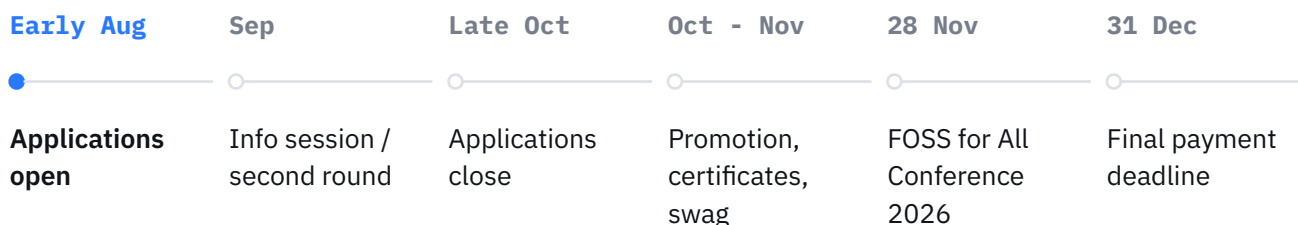

Conditions on attendee data. Only data from attendees who consented to third-party sharing is provided, and which fields you receive depends on the tier. Use and retention follow the conference privacy policy, and you must tell us in advance the company name and address, contact person, purpose of use, and disposal method after the retention period, so that they can be written into the policy.

Common

- Certificate of appreciation: A certificate commemorating your sponsorship of the conference.

How to sponsor

Timeline

Registration

01 Choose a package and apply

Pick a tier and any add-ons, then submit the sponsor registration form. If slots remain, we proceed with registration. If you want to adjust the package details or sponsor in kind, talk to the sponsorship team before applying.

02 Paperwork

- Quotation: Issued on request for your internal approval process.
- Contract: Drafted on request, and skipped if you do not need one.
- Tax invoice or invoice: Issued under the name “FOSS for All” after the contract is signed, or after your internal approval if the contract is skipped. Foreign corporations without a place of business in Korea receive a USD invoice.
- Statement of account: Issued separately from the tax invoice on request.

03 Payment

Transfer the sponsorship fee, including VAT where applicable, to the account we provide. Registration is complete once payment is confirmed. The deadline is the date in the contract. Without a contract, it is two weeks from the date of a Korean tax invoice, or net 30 (within 30 days) for a USD invoice. Extensions can be arranged, but payment must be complete by 31 December 2026 at the latest.

04 Confirmation and benefits

Once registered, your logo goes up on the website and we guide you through your booth, session, break video, and other benefits. After the event we send a thank you note, the certificate, and the attendee data.

Applications and questions go to sponsors@fossforall.org. The registration form link and the info session schedule will be published at <https://2026.fossforall.org/en> when applications open.

About FOSS for All

An initiative for a sustainable free and open source software ecosystem.

FOSS for All is an initiative created so that free and open source projects, communities, companies, contributors, and users, in Korea and elsewhere, can connect with each other and keep going. Projects face more than technical work: accounting, administration, running events, managing sponsorships, and legal review. FOSS for All exists so that a project does not have to found its own legal entity or repeat the same administrative work from scratch.

FOSS for All Conference

An annual conference where free and open source communities meet, lesser-known projects get an audience, and participants work through shared problems together.

Fiscal sponsorship

Our mid-term goal is to let communities and projects raise and manage funds transparently without founding a legal entity. We are studying how Open Source Collective in the US and Open Culture Foundation in Taiwan do it.

FOSS for All Microgrant

A program that distributes small grants to open source projects and communities, aimed at giving early-stage projects real support.

Ecosystem network

Building connections between maintainers, contributors, users, companies, and institutions, and acting as a catalyst between them.
